Washington Dec 21. 1875

My dear Sir:

Both of you:

The letter from Charlie contained the first direct address we had ever seen & left England so I telegraphed him at once and sent him full. The money deposited with Mr. A. Brand, Bank Angl. non cont, to St. Hel. and is added to at rate of 4 per cent.
Then deposit was made at his request. It would be a great misfortune for him to have his stop work now. And he is going abroad and the account promised so admirably I agree with the numerous attacks on the C.S. I cannot for the life of me understand what is meant by 'hidden wrongs in the Arctic'; I would be rejoiced to hear from you whenever convenient to you to stay with us - in which Lizzie would rejoice with me.

Fared is only the outbreak of Luplace's error, which was first committed by King, for whose action it will be better to wait a reasonable time. If King take no action. General will be made do so, and will eventually at a rate, as of course his paper submitted by before receipt.

Yours sincerely
C. P. Patterson
