

Robert Henry Scott (1833–1916)

Robert Scott, born in Dublin, was founder of Valentia Observatory and first Director of the British Meteorological Office.

Scott proposed some improvements to Campbell's sunshine recorder.

The detailed design of the instrument was due to Stokes.