United States.

Dear Madam, I must apologise for the delay in replying to your two communications of the 16th ult^o which I have now much pleasure in doing. 1st The saving effected by purchasing at our stores. I have no hesitation in saying that it is at least 10 £ per cent taking all classes of goods & having regard to quality as well as price (which is an essential element in cheapness).

I believe it is more, but am without any doubt whatever of the advantage being very fully the amt. named.

2nd Fresh meat is not supplied direct from the stores. We have however in various parts of London first class butchers who by arrangement with the Assocⁿ supply our members
