

Perice, B.

Mr. Sewall Cambridge 1879
1091

Dear Sir

John Henshaw in a speech on how takes on

by surprise - since you have no allusion to it in your unrevelation with me - and I am inclined to two opinions that the impatience of the subscribers is not such as to make it necessary to he had in definition, and thereby in notice to the Bach's Fund - and disburse thereby the memory of Professor Winlock -

and also put me into a very disagreeable
position -

Yours very truly

Benjamin Peirce

a learner in